Showering Love

Some years ago, a BK sister and I were preparing to meet Dadi. At the time, I commented: "I don't think Dadi is going to recognize me..." My friend replied, "of course she will recognize you." A few hours later we met Dadi and as I stepped towards her, she reached out and hugged me tight and insisted, "You have to promise that you will never ever say again that Dadi doesn't recognize you." In 2013, during a class for Peace of Mind guests, Dadi looked at me and said, "Dadi remembers you." These moments remain so important for me and carry much meaning because they show me how to shower love as an instrument for Baba.

Words of Wisdom

With love for One, and detachment from the unwanted/unnecessary, I can serve accurately. Service cannot entangle me when I am the Master. I am a child of God, whose presence inspires and empowers. Why make myself weak and expose myself to external influence? As is the food so is the mind, as the company so is the color. My company should only enable others to belong to Baba, and become equal to the Supreme. By being peaceful and love-full, realty and royalty become our natural sanskars. This is truly claiming the royal status, and fortune of the kingdom.

Do not leave anything till tomorrow. Whatever you want to do, do that now. You hear the news of the world and are aware of what is happening everywhere – floods, storms, earthquakes – sorrow and peacelessness is increasing everywhere and so many people are dying. I do not listen to or see the news on TV, but I always feel that I have to give sakaash to everyone in order to serve the world. At this time, everyone needs love, co-operation, support and sakaash. Our BK family needs this and the world also needs it.

We have regard and value for those in this family. This one follows BapDada's teachings, this one does service, and this is my elder sister, my elder brother. Baba has made someone an instrument and then those instruments put these souls in this position. So we have regard and value; we understand and give respect to each other with the natural feeling that we are all God's children. Baba has given us the knowledge of drama, because everyone has their own part in the drama. They are performing that action; it is not for me to even get my head into it or to think that they will suffer the fruit of their actions.

Drishti Point

I am a loving being and I meet all people with the vision of love. I feel rays of love flow from my eyes and flood the atmosphere with respect and support, knowing that each one is valuable and has a specialty that is important for community well-being.

Karma Yoga Point

Each task I perform this week will be filled with an extra dose of love. This love will be abundant, overflowing and available to all – there are no limits to this love as it flows directly from the source, God.
