

Sister Jenna

For decades, Sister Jenna, as she is affectionately known, has moved and shaped the consciousness of lives around the world. She has traveled to over 80 countries to raise awareness of the self and the Divine. It has saved lives. Her wisdom, peace, and compassion for humanity are expressed through the variety of initiatives she spearheads for youths, women, governments, and communities. She is someone who herself has come from self destructive patterns and turned that into courage and service to humanity.

Sister Jenna is one of four women leaders on the Face to Face talk series featuring Harriet Fulbright, Zainab Al Suwajj, Marcia Dyson on peaceful dialogues through the voices of women, a production similar to the television show The View. She is board emeritus of the United Religions, winner of the Friendship Archway Awards, and founder and director of the Meditation Museum. She is also vice chair of Power of One, and director of Brahma Kumaris, a worldwide organization with over 8,000 branches in 120 countries.

She has produced documentaries for the Brahma Kumaris and is sought after by numerous TV/Radio programs. She has been featured in various books and publications. Her speaking engagements range from a variety of platforms such as, the UN in Geneva, Universities, Government agencies, Peace Forums, Corporations, to Juvenile delinquents, youths, Arts and women groups. Sister Jenna serves children in villages as far as in India to our children in the nation's capitol and is also a spiritual mentor to many thought leaders around the globe.

She is invited by major institutions, such as The World Bank Group, Booz Allen and Hamilton, The Pentagon, American University, The Coast Guard, The George Washington University to name a few, as well as, by grassroots organizations to offer lectures and workshops that promote positive awareness, change, and solutions. Her spiritual leadership in a city like Washington DC has yielded meaningful relationships for personal, local, and global change.
